

Sterling silver jewellery for women

Online traditional jewellery has become rather famous in recent times, with the advent of numerous retail websites and e-commerce sites. Indian traditional jewellery is perhaps as old as Indian history. It is as old as the Vedic ages. Earlier people used to wear chunky traditional gold and silver jewellery. With the influence of western culture when fashion is concerned, people are preferring more minimalistic forms of jewellery. Accessorizing every part of the body is the latest fad and consumers are flocking to these online retail ventures to purchase jewellery.

Head Accessories:

The sky is indeed the limit when head jewellery is concerned. Starting from gorgeous western-inspired tiaras, to traditional maang teekas, head accessories are selected by modern-day brides. Head jewellery in the form of gajras and venis for bejeweled braids is an important piece of jewellery.

Earrings:

Traditional and intricately carved earrings are important for improving the look of modern-day brides. However, due to the rise in western influence, consumers nowadays are gravitating towards minimalistic styles.

Necklace Sets:

Artificial and traditional necklace sets of different kinds have also undergone massive change over this period. Women can select from the Kundan necklace set or the meenakari necklace set.

Rings and Bracelets:

Different kinds of hand accessories include bracelets and finger rings. Starting from meenakari bracelets to Kundan jadau rings, Ciero Jewels have a massive collection of rings and bracelets that are available online. 925 sterling silver rings are the other kind of artificial jewellery that is available online
