

What Does Your Laundry Personality?

Chic, stylish, bohemian, smart, enjoyable, classic—you most likely have your definition of your unique style and sense of style. However, are you considering your laundry personality? Just as unique and personal to you as the clothes themselves is the way you wash them. Understanding your laundry personality may help lighten the workload and make the task simple and reliable.

A survey done by laundry services revealed that 25% of families claim to overload their washers frequently. People still have issues with the laundry procedure, even those who claim to be doing it effectively. Indeed, over 74% of respondents think washers might be made better.

Laundry may be made simple and even pleasant by identifying your laundry personality and selecting items that complement it. These are the features of four common laundry personalities, along with dry cleaning services tips on how to be as productive as possible:

Clothes Washing Services Tips: 4 Common Laundry Services You Need To Consider

#1 - The Small Loader:

Do you ever find yourself having to run the laundry with just one or two items because you want to divide and preserve your garments, especially those delicate special care items? You're not by yourself. A recent laundry services survey revealed that 60% of the population admitted to doing a full load of laundry for no more than six things.

#2 - The Super Sorter:

Do you get sick thinking about doing a load of laundry that includes both a pink top and dark jeans? 22 % of people, including yourself, would rather not combine various coloured products in the same load. Additionally, some of the respondents don't think that washing delicates (52%), jackets (49%), and blouses (30%) in the regular wash is a reliable option.

Use many laundry room baskets or hampers to help with your separating efforts. Family members place their soiled clothes in the proper basket by labelling them (darks, whites, delicates, workout, etc.).

#3 - The Dumper:

Do you exercise minimal separation? The vast majority of the people who fill their washers are joining you.

According to a recent survey, 80% of people have intentionally overloaded their washers in order to avoid doing a second load of laundry. Furthermore, according to 22% of UK people, an overloaded washer is to blame for clothing that needs to be thoroughly cleaned.

Both of these issues are resolved by front-load washing machines with high efficiency. Front-load washers have a larger capacity than top-load washers, which use agitators and actually clean clothing better as they use far less water.

#4 - The Regular Dry Cleaner:

Summertime is a hectic and humid season when people juggle work and outdoor cookouts during the warmest months of the year. The secret to keeping the regular dry cleaners looking and feeling their best is to update their summer clothing in between pool parties. Have you just returned from a cocktail party outside? With no harsh chemicals, Hello Laundry's dry cleaning services will minimise wrinkles and odours from things like sweat when you place your favourite dresses, shirts, or suits inside.
